Region of Peel– Beginning Wednesday, August 26, 2020, Peel Regional Police will be providing residents of Brampton and Mississauga with a new online application process for obtaining police record checks.

Brampton and Mississauga residents can now obtain a Criminal Record Check, Criminal Record and Judicial Matters Check or Vulnerable Sector Check for employment or volunteer purposes without having to attend a police station in person.

The online program allows residents of Brampton and Mississauga, to apply for all three levels of record checks, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

All aspects of the process, including verification of identity and fee processing, are handled electronically using a platform developed by Rogue Data Corporation who specializes in secure workflow automation.

When applying online for a police record check, applicants answer a series of authentication questions based on the applicant's personal credit file. Answers to the questions are timed to ensure added security and privacy.
